The first, second and third batches were paid for 127 girls of Taiz University’s, who were imposed by war to continue their study outside Taiz province.

Ms. Rahmah Alaghbary – the manager of the Excellence Center of Bena Charity – met the short-listed candidates existed in Taiz and talked about Bena projects briefly regarding the educational scope, which is one of its priorities.

She clarified that the financial-grants project had been in very hard conditions and helped many girls at continuing their university studies, ensuring that Bena Charity would continue supporting them however the conditions might become according to its possibilities available.
Bena Charity sponsors honoring the Secondary Schools Superiors and Teachers

Under the sponsorship of Bena Charity for Human Development, a ceremony held to honor and farewell the secondary school students of the martyr Neamah Rassam School.

During the ceremony, organized by the Yemen Tech initiative in (the School of Martyr Neamah Rassam), the superiors of first and second of high school were honored besides the administrative board and the voluntary teachers. The third class of high school was farewelled as well. The sponsorship of Bena for such an event came to encourage back to schools after the dropout happened due to the war and the usage of schools as military barracks. Yemen Tech initiative included 750 students of secondary school, 90 teachers (men and women), half of them worked voluntarily. Several developmental and educational initiatives inside the city were supported.
A press conference on the education indicators in Taiz governorate

Bena Charity for Human Development and the Studies & Educational Media Center organized a press conference - on Sat 13th Aug in the hall of the Oil Office in Taiz - to present the education indicators in Taiz.

In the conference, Mr. Riyadh Sallam, the executive manager of Bena Charity, presented a report on the education situation of the universities and professional and technical institutions in Taiz, explaining that 95% of the professional and technical institutes were damaged directly while 90% of the private universities are still closed and only 25% of university students who could return to study as there are more than 6000 students (girls and boys) in need for shelter centers and urgent financial aids.

Mr. Riyadh Sallam has indicated that the percentage of students displacement reached 80%-50% of them were able to resume their studying in the other governorate they went to.

Mr. Sallam explained that the improper buildings of universities and institutes and the displacement of teaching members that reached 90% is a challenge in front of normalizing the education in the governorate as the basic estimated cost for re-run Taiz University urgently is almost one hundred millions Riyal (YER).

From the another side, the chairman of the Studies and Educational Media Center, Mr. Ahmed Albohairy, has presented a report titled "Evaluating the General Education Situation of Yemen" during 2015/2016.

The report has clarified that there are about 1600 schools in all provinces closed, which means that one school out of ten is closed, 36% of them are totally or somehow damaged, 22% of them are either destroyed or occupied militarily which made about one million and three hundred children between (6-17 ages) depraved of continuing their study. 30% of registered students in the general education are on only a stand-by situation and received no education yet even though they have had pass results, while about 40% of teachers and education staff were able to do their jobs during this year, part or full time, as the studying hours that students had were less than the overall average.

The report has evaluated the governorates and classified them to three main regions (as Inflamed Provinces; Provinces under the control of the legitimate; and Provinces under Alhauthi and Ex-president groups). The report presented several challenges, recommendations and solutions as well.

Furthermore, local and Arabian media means (visual, written and electronic ones) addressed the report with high concern and quoted the statistics written in their news’ paragraphs.
